

Dr. Michael Canute Lambert earned his Master's and Doctoral degrees in Clinical Psychology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a Master's degree in Clinical Social Work at Bryn Mawr College. Currently, he is a Professor in the School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (UNC). Besides his current appointment at UNC, he held faculty appointments as Assistant and Associate Professor in Departments of Psychology at Michigan State University and the University of Mississippi respectively. He also held the Millsap Endowed Professorship of Diversity and Multicultural Studies in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies as well as Adjunct Professorship in the Department of Psychological Sciences at the University of Missouri-Columbia. Dr. Lambert has researched and published in multiple areas of the behavioral sciences, including work on behavioral and emotional functioning in children, adolescents, adults, and families nationally and internationally. As a senior clinical psychologist, who practices in Cary, NC, Dr. Lambert specializes in assessment and treatment of children, adolescents, adults, couples, and families. His clinical expertise includes treatment of trauma, depression, anxiety, and severe psychological disorders such as bipolar disorder and schizophrenia in children, adolescents and adults.